Who We Are

The Global Public Policy Institute (GPPi) is an independent, non-profit think tank based in Berlin and Geneva. Supported by an international advisory board, our team combines research and public policy expertise with management consulting skills. GPPi receives funding through foundations, project partners and clients from the public and private sectors. We re-invest profits from our consulting activities into our research work.

Our Mission

Our mission is to develop innovative strategies for effective and accountable governance and to achieve lasting impact at the interface of the public sector, business and civil society.

Our Approach

We combine research, consulting and debate. Our research contributes to knowledge on effective and accountable governance. Building on this research expertise, our consulting work develops strategies for clients from the public and private sectors. We foster the exchange of knowledge and experience between researchers and practitioners, contributing to the broader public debate on key political challenges.

We work in global knowledge networks. We maintain partnerships with leading universities and research institutes across the world.

We promote policy entrepreneurship. Through our work, we strengthen strategic communities around pressing political challenges by bringing together the public sector, civil society and business.

Our Work

Humanitarian Assistance

- Studies on the role of new humanitarian donors, both governments and the private sector
- Evaluation of the Cluster Approach in global humanitarian assistance (IASC, OCHA)
- Inter-agency evaluation of disaster response to the 2010 Haiti earthquake (IASC)
- Research and transatlantic dialogue series on food assistance

Global Energy Governance

- Research project and book Global Energy Governance: The New Rules of the Game (Brookings Press 2010)
- Study on OPEC and the future of producer cooperation in global energy, with books in German (Die OPEC, Hanser 2009) and in English (OPEC and Power, Clio/Praeger 2011)
- Transatlantic Energy Governance Dialogue series with key stakeholders from governments, academia, NGOs and the private sector (since 2007)

Innovation in Development

- Ten years of research and evaluation on the roles, effectiveness and accountability of public-private partnerships
- Strategy development on partnerships for clients such as UNICEF, the German government and the Austrian government
- Studies on the role of foundations in international development, on the rating systems used by donors to allocate aid and on the absorptive capacity of recipient countries
